18 Trainees To Be From Morgan, Rowan, Elliott, and Menifee

A welding course, to be funded under the federal Manpower Training Act, is scheduled to begin at the West Liberty Vocational Center June 1.

Morgan County School Supt. Walton Jones, who arranged for the class to be re-scheduled at the West Liberty center, made the announcement Monday.

The course will provide welding training for 18 men from Morgan, Elliott, Menifee, and Rowan counties and will be taught by Ray Stratton of West Liberty.

Trainees will be selected by the State Employment Office at Morehead with the majority to come from Morgan. The class will be administered by the Ashland Area Vocational School.

An application for federal Manpower Development and Training funds to operate the course was sent to Washington last week and is expected to be approved in time to begin the class June 1.

In the meantime, Supt. Jones said, the Morgan County Board of Education with the aid of Ashland Vocational School personnel will complete needed repairs at the West Liberty Extension Center in the old NYA Building. Several successful welding classes had been offered at West Liberty during the past few years. But Morgan school officials were informed earlier this year that unless facilities at the center were improved all future welding classes for this area would be taught at the Ashland school's more modern Olive Hill extension center.

As a result, a welding class previously scheduled to begin at West Liberty was cancelled and no additional classes were scheduled at West Liberty.

Since that time Supt. Jones has arranged for the facilities to be repaired.

Earlier, at the request of the Morgan County Development Council's manpower development committee local businessmen had pledged $500 if needed to help with repairs.

Supt. Jones on Monday expressed his appreciation for the interest demonstrated by the committee but said the school board has adequate funds and materials to complete the repairs.

The manpower development committee is headed by Douglas Howard and Winford Howard is co-chairman.

16 AREA FUNERAL HOMES PLAN TO DROP AMBULANCE SERVICE JULY 1

Fiscal Courts Asked To Provide Service In Several Counties

Sixteen Eastern Kentucky funeral homes last week announced they will go out of the ambulance business June 30.

The 16 cover Morgan, Elliott, Wolfe, Rowan, Bath, Menifee, and Montgomery counties.

In addition, Breathitt County's three funeral homes are waiting before making an announcement to try to get arrangements made for a takeover of service.

A. J. Herald of Herald and Stewart Funeral Home in West Liberty said his firm, along with Potter Funeral Home, approached the Morgan Fiscal Court before making their announcement.

The fiscal court, Herald said, has been asked to take over ambulance service in Morgan County. Lewis and Ferguson Funeral Home at Sandy Hook has asked the Elliott Fiscal Court to assume responsibility for ambulance service.

Plans are afoot, it was learned this week, to initiate a commercial ambulance service in some areas.

Area funeral homes ceasing the service are—Lane Funeral Home and Stucky Funeral Home, Morehead.

Herald and Stewart and Potter Funeral Homes, West Liberty.

Lewis and Ferguson, Sandy Hook.

Hearn, Wells, in Slade, and Powell County in Clay City.

Mitchell and Eastin-Richey, Mt. Sterling.

Keel and Richardson, Owingsville; Powell and Son in Salt Lick.

Porter and Son, Shackelford, at Campton.

Richey, in Frenchburg.

Mr. Lane said the planned cut-off of ambulance service was brought about, as in 40 other Kentucky counties, by rising costs of equipment and higher wages commanded under new legislation.

"Dr. Richard Carpenter of St. Claire Medical Center is working with the Gateway Development District to try to solve the problem with a commercial service," Mr. Lane added. County judges are all going through the district to get help, and Dr. Carpenter plans to have a school at his hospital to train attendants."

Meanwhile, Frank Fletcher of Breathitt Funeral Home in Breathitt said his firm, along with Gabbard and Jackson Funeral Homes, intended to cut off service "when we can make some arrangements, but we won't leave the people stranded."

SEN. COOPER ASKS FUNDS TO SPEED RECREATIONAL CONST. ON CAVE RUN

Long Delay Foreseen For Most Recreation Development Work

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Sherman Cooper last week urged a Senate subcommittee to appropriate $700,000 needed immediately to prevent unnecessary delay of recreational construction along the Cave Run Reservoir.

The $700,000 is needed immediately, Cooper said, to allow the U. S. Forest Service to complete vital work along the reservoir before the waters begin to rise in 1973.

The Forest Service is in charge of developing recreational facilities — including access roads — on the 8,000-acre lake which will lie within the Daniel Boone National Forest.

Most of the recreational development planned by the Forest Service will be delayed anyway due to the Nixon administration's 75 percent cutback in federal spending for domestic projects. Projected expenditures of more than $20 million for recreation over the next seven years have been slashed to just over a million dollars.

However, Sen. Cooper pointed out that if some of the work is not done before the water rises, it "just won't get done because the whole place will be under water."

Cooper said certain water and sewer lines will have to be laid before the flooding. He also said the Forest Service would have to take certain steps to protect fish habitats, also before flooding.

Other recreation projects, like the construction of boat ramps, beaches, and fishing piers, Cooper said, "can be done more efficiently and at lower cost before the reservoir is completely filled."

Cooper said the $700,000 would be needed in the next fiscal year for the Forest Service to complete necessary work before the waters begin to rise.

A delegation from counties surrounding the lake was in Washington a few weeks ago to protest the cutback, but apparently most of the shoreline will remain isolated for some time to come barring a change to a more liberal spending policy in Washington.

More than 2,500 new students are expected to enroll at the University of Kentucky for the 1970 fall semester.

PERKINS SAYS ROYALTON DAM CHANCES SLIM

SALYERSVILLE — The proposed Royalton Dam and reservoir on Licking River above Salyersville has been given approval by the Secretary of the Army and the Bureau of the Budget.

And 7th District Congressman Carl D. Perkins told Magoffin Countians last week, "We need all the assistance we can get in securing a favorable report from the Bureau on the reservoir."

Perkins was feature speaker at the annual Soil Conservation Dinner, held this year at Millard-Hensley School.

"I wish I could tell you when we will get the Royalton Reservoir," Perkins said. "You and I know because of the world situation, there is a move to cut domestic spending. Until lately, reservoir construction has been cut back 75 percent."

Engineers OK Job

LATER — The Army Corps of Engineers, it was learned Wednesday, has included the Royalton Reservoir Salyersville Area Project in its recommended $2.6 billion worth of water resources projects for the Appalachian region. The Royalton project on the upper Licking River carries a $35 million price estimate and includes a multiple-purpose reservoir at Royalton, upstream dams, land treatment measures, channel improvements and a plan for the economic or industrial development of the area. Also included in the Corps of Engineers recommendations was a $40 million development project for the proposed new city of Midland below Cave Run Dam on Licking in Bath County.

Perkins, who pledged his support for the Royalton Reservoir, said that even the position of the Paint Creek and Blaine Creek dams, already approved for Johnson and Lawrence counties, is tottery because of the cutback in domestic spending.

The Royalton Reservoir would provide Salyersville with pollution-free drinking water and would provide flood-free river bottoms for industrial development around Salyersville.

Citizens Pledge More Than $30,000 For Hospital; Construction Assured

Among volunteers who manned the microphone during last Saturday's radio marathon for the Morgan County Hospital Fund were, from left, Graden Neil Walter, Bernard Hill, Douglas Howard, State Sen. Joe D. Stacy, and County Judge Gene Allen. More than $30,000 in pledges were received during the nine-and-a-half-hour marathon. According to Mrs. C. K. Stacy, other volunteers who manned telephones and tabulated pledges were Jane and Judy Murray, Pam Osborne, Donna Turner, Gwendolyn Black, George Walter, Lenville Ball, who provided spiritual music, Garry Adkins, and Mrs. C. K. Stacy. Various other citizens helped with entertainment and spoke in behalf of the drive.

At the end of banking hours Monday, Mrs. C. K. Stacy, treasurer of the Morgan County Hospital Finance Committee, tabulated stacks of checks and bills which were brought or mailed in to the Commercial Bank for the hospital fund. Much more money is needed, however, to provide operating expenses when the hospital is completed and the fund drive is expected to continue through the summer.

REV. TED STANLEY, CIVIC MINDED MINISTER, HONORED BY GOV. NUNN

FRANKFORT, Ky. — For his dedicated leadership and constructive work, Rev. Ted Stanley has received the Merit Award from Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

Father Stanley of Morehead and formerly pastor of the Prince of Peace Chapel at West Liberty, and his helpers reacted to a Scout Troop in West Liberty and helped with Jaycee projects, he remodeled an old church for a much needed mental health center in Owensville and another in West Liberty. Both are part of the five-county Mental Health-Mental Retardation Association.

Father Stanley also has set up used clothing outlets for the poor of Morgan, Bath, and Rowan Counties.

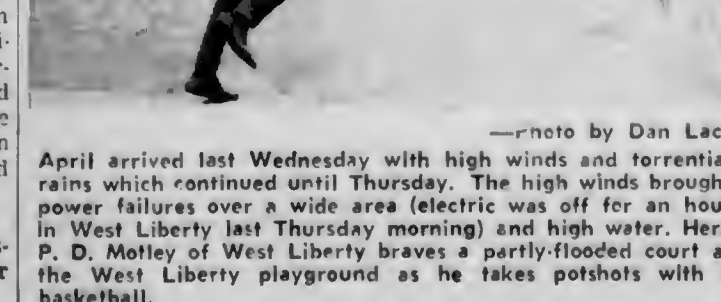

He is a member of the Commission on Religion in Appalachia (CORA), an organization of Baptists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Methodists, Christians, and other denominations dedicated to improving spiritual life in Appalachia. He is also a member of the Council of Southern Mountains, headquartered in Berea.

Father Stanley is presently raising $300,000 to build a Newman Center at Morehead State University. "Our old facility is a converted garage which holds about 100 people," he says. "Since our attendance is about 400 each Sunday, we must have four services."

The new building will be a multi-purpose hall for religious services and meditation, it will have offices, a rectory, and possibly a day care center. The building will be offered to any religious group on campus that needs it.

"It has been said in the past that the community should serve the church," Father Stanley says. "We think this church should serve the community."

So far, Father Stanley has raised about $75,000 towards the price of the building, mostly from students, churches, families, friends of the church.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MORGAN COUNTY:

We wish to take this opportunity to express our thanks to the people of this area for the tremendous response we have had in our drive for money to purchase land for our hospital. This response has virtually assured our county of this much needed facility.

We have always known that the best people in the world reside in our area, and this again proves it. It also shows that there is nothing that cannot be accomplished when a group of people forget their differences and work together for a common goal.

I personally wish to express my gratitude to the workers, who gave of their time and effort, to get the job done.

Again, it is with our heartfelt gratitude and humility that we say—Thank you.

Morris Peyton, M.D.
Chairman Morgan Co.
Hospital Committee

But Considerable Sum Still Needed And Drive Continues

Morgan Countians gave and they gave and they gave.

By the hundreds, citizens of all ages and walks responded Saturday to the Morgan County Hospital Board's plea for funds to assure construction this fall of a 30-bed area hospital at West Liberty.

In response to a nine-and-a-half hour radio marathon conducted by volunteers over West Liberty Radio Station WLKS, pledges and donations totaling more than $30,000 poured in faster than workers could tabulate them.

Several pledges also came in from adjoining counties.

And aware of the urgent need for the funds, citizens on Monday mailed or brought in to the Commercial Bank donations totaling $23,550.00.

Though a considerable sum still is needed to provide initial operating funds once the hospital is built, County Judge Gene Allen said Wednesday, "Because of the generous response of the citizens of Morgan County and this area we can now say with complete assurance that we are going to get a hospital."

At a meeting of the hospital board Monday night, Judge Allen said that the architect has assured him that the project will be ready for building by late August or early September. And according to Hospital Administrator Shelby Kash of Frenchburg, the hospital should be completed by the fall of 1971 barring construction delays.

Judge Allen, who is chairman of the hospital finance committee, announced Monday that $26,000 of the donated funds will be used immediately by the Fiscal Court to purchase the hospital site — a transaction which must be closed quickly to assure prompt release of federal grants earmarked for the hospital.

Judge Allen emphasized that the fund drive is not over.

As stressed earlier through this newspaper, it is essential that an additional sum for initial operating expenses also be raised. And all donations above the $26,000 for land purchase are being set aside for this purpose.

Since the hospital is expected to employ around 100 persons, a considerable amount will be required at the onset to meet payroll, purchase supplies, etc., and Judge Allen urged all citizens who have not yet mailed their donations to please do so as quickly as possible.

Responding to the continuing need for funds, local churches, civic organizations, and clubs have planned a series of fund-raising projects with all proceeds to go to the hospital fund.

Th drive is expected to continue through the summer and a complete list of donors will be compiled later by the hospital finance committee for publication.

Hospital board members, who have struggled for more than two years to get a hospital here, said they were overwhelmed by citizens' response Saturday.

Said Dr. Morris L. Peyton, board chairman, "Certainly it was one of the most heart warming outpourings of public generosity ever witnessed in the mountains."

Another board member summed it up: "When the chips are down," he said, "our mountain people are the most liberal and generous people in the world. Their response in this time of great need was magnificent. They saved our hospital."

BAKE SALE SET SATURDAY FOR HOSPITAL FUND

The Morgan County Junior-Senior Home Economics Class will sponsor a bake sale Saturday, April 11, in front of West Liberty Florist, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Roy Nickell, home ec teacher, said proceeds will go to the Morgan County Hospital Fund.

Kentucky residents enrolled in the University of Kentucky proximately 77 per cent of the at Lexington total 11,787—ap—student population.

COTTLE

By Orpha M. Hamilton

April 7 — Easter 1970 will probably be remembered as the first real snow on Easter Sunday that our folks remember. We had snow for Christmas, snow for New Years. One of the biggest snows of the winter was on Valentine's Day. Then Easter. Think I'll call our weather man and see if he predicts snow for the 30th of May. Wouldn't be impossible you know.

Several have inquired, why the absence of my column lately. Well, I have just plain been running around. Recently when Sam and Bertie Litteral invited us to go to Florida with them we just packed up and went and had a good vacation.

We went down the Gulf Coast all the way to Key West, back up the East Coast by Miami, Fort Lauderdale, and Palm Beach, and turned inland to Okechobee where we visited from Sunday night to Tuesday morning with Mr. and Mrs. Bert May, Monday, they showed us many of the sights around there and took us to Moorhaven to visit Boyd and Dessie Brown, who took us out and told us to help ourselves to the oranges, lemons, limes and grapefruit on the trees in their yard. And so we did. Thanks for that courtesy, Boyd and Dessie.

The flowers around Sunken Gardens, Silver Springs, and Cypress Gardens were breathtaking and we saw many other beautiful scenes.

However, I have been wondering why Kentucky and Florida couldn't make a deal. Let's give them some of our hills to fill up some of their swamps, especially along the Taniama Trail in Southern Florida.

Mrs. Shirley Young and daughters and Phyllis Kerr and daughters, all of Maryland, visited recently with their mother, Mrs. Nora Cottle, and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Hamilton attended the Soil Conservation meeting Friday evening at the Hillard-Hensley School, Bloomington. Speakers included State Soil Conservation Worker Mr. Murray of Ashland; local soil conservation supervisor Ollie J. Arnett, and Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

We send get well wishes to our cousin, Ted Lykins, who is seriously ill, and been hospitalized in Columbus, Ohio.

Ronnie McGuire (my nephew) and his girl friend of Lexington visited while Sunday afternoon with the Sewell Hamiltons. They had been visiting her grandparents, at Prestonsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kennard and family of Dayton spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Finley Kennard and with Alka Williams and Jim Elam. Also Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nickell of Broadhead came Sunday and are spending a few days with the Finley Kennards and Ida McGuire.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Lewis and children and Mrs. Clyde Endicott and baby, all of Ohio, were Friday night guests of Mr.

and Mrs. Bill Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert May returned Wednesday from their winter stay in Florida. They visited Sunday afternoon with the Sewell Hamiltons.

Mrs. Mary Henry, wishes to thank Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Brown for the fresh oranges sent her by the Sewell Hamiltons.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Stambough of Ashland visited last week with her mother, Florence Elam.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Lewis had as guests Sunday afternoon Mrs. Paris Lewis and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Erndon Lewis, Mrs. Gene McClure and children, Mrs. Ina Easterling, and several others.

Mr. and Mrs. Ranz Fugate and family of Michigan spent Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brooks, and Mrs. Nora Cottle and other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. French Cline, and Mrs. Bobby Lewis attended the Eastern Star meeting at West Liberty Monday night. Miss Brenda Cottle of Morehead University visited home folks over the weekend.

Mrs. Henry Brooks and Mrs. Katherine Davis had business in West Liberty Monday.

Mrs. Denzil Hill, Deanna, Kelli, and Delynda were Sunday dinner guests of her parents. The occasion was in honor of little Kelli's fourth birthday and the Hamiltons' 39th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Addie Ferguson of Frankfort, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kennard of Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Bee Franklin of Ashland were Easter weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wick Kennard.

Congratulations to Sharon Lewis, who went to town yesterday and was successful in passing her driver's test and granted her operators license for her car.

Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Alka Williams were the Harold Kennard family, Erndon Lewis, Bobby Lewis, Mrs. Sewell Hamilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lewis.

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

BOND ISSUE—Mr. Sterling city council has advertised for sale of $96,000 in bonds, the money to be used to extend and improve the city sewer system.

BIRTH RATE DOWN—Kentucky Office of Vital Statistics says the childbirth rate in Kentucky is on the downturn. After a slight increase from 1960 to end of 1961, the number of births has decreased steadily at about 1946 births a year.

GOV. LOUIE B. NUNN, signing into law the General Assembly bill raising the interest ceiling on home loans from 7 to 8.5 per cent, said economic advisors both in Washington and Kentucky had assured him "this legislation is sound." The interest-ceiling measure approved by the Governor was drafted in accordance with his wishes after he vetoed SB 139 which would have allowed banks to charge up to 9 per cent on home loans under $7,500, and removed the ceiling on large loans.

BREATHITT COUNTY may have solved problem which threatened location of a new industry, with purchase by the Breathitt County Industrial Foundation of a 25-acre site. The federal Economic Development Administration has said it could not finance water and sewer improvements to a 10-acre U. S. Shoe Co. site because shoe manufacturing is in the "needle surplus" industry.

The foundation's new 25-acre site is adjacent to the shoe company site in the PanDowl section near Jackson. EDA will be able to finance utility lines to the industrial foundation site and the shoe firm will benefit since it is next door.

C & O RAILWAY plans to discontinue passenger trains 46 and 47 between Ashland and Detroit are opposed by Congressman Carl D. Perkins. In a letter to Virginia May Brown, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Congressman Perkins said "railroad passenger service to Ashland and to the people of my Congressional district is tremendously important."

AUTO SALES in late March fell 12.8% from 1969—a weaker showing than many analysts expected. General Motors posted a 22.4% decline and Ford Motor 7.4%, while Chrysler and American Motors had gains.

VOCATIONAL ED PROGRAM—The federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved a grant of $478,000 to start a model program of vocational education as proposed by the Pikeville Model Cities Program. Vocational and occupational education will be provided at the lower elementary level and continue the educational ladder to include adults.

3 MAJOR TELEVISION

NETWORKS have asked for dismissal of suit filed against them by Kentucky tobacco growers, Attorneys for National Broadcasting Co., American Broadcasting Co., and Columbia Broadcasting System, filed motion in U. S. District Court in Lexington to dismiss the suit asking the court to prohibit the networks from airing anti-cigarette smoking commercials. . . The motion claimed the suit is forbidden under the first amendment to the U. S. Constitution and by sections of the Kentucky constitution; also tobacco interests must prove the commercials are false and that networks air them maliciously in order to gain relief, which has not been done. . . Motions and briefs were forwarded to U. S. District Judge C. G. Neese, Springfield, Tenn., who is hearing the suit filed December 19, 1969.

ON POLITICAL MISSION—Gov. and Mrs. Nunn will be in Washington this weekend where their daughter Jenny Lou will represent Kentucky at the Cherry Blossom Festival. But the Governor will stay in the capital a few days longer, and speculation has it that he will be trying to persuade Senator John Sherman Cooper to run for governor next year. Cooper, now 72, has said he will step down from his Senate seat at the end of the present term. Nunn managed Cooper's successful campaigns in 1956 and 1960 and is close to the Somerset senator. The Governor also can enlist the aid of President Nixon in helping him persuade Cooper to run in the 1971 gubernatorial campaign. Cooper's candidacy will keep down a hot GOP primary for the governorship, a move Nunn is adroit at arranging. But there may be a hot Democrat primary, as usual. Mentioned as possible candidates are former Gov. Bert T. Combs, who recently tendered his resignation as a federal judge; former Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, former Gov. A. B. Chandler, and Lieut. Gov. Wendell Ford. Others mentioned are Atty. Gen. John Breckenridge and Senator Gibson Downing of Lexington, also Mayfield Sen. Carroll Hubbard.

Republican staff members talk of "tremendous optimism" within the party for victory in 1971 because of a "highly successful (legislature) session", good financial base in the state, a popular governor, internal unity within the party and factional fighting among the Democrats.

April 6 — We had over the Easter holiday the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Louie Randolph and family of Lockland, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Holliday of Mainville, Ohio and son Kevin. We all went to West Liberty shopping and had an egg hunt on Saturday as the Randolphs went home on Saturday to attend a church wedding and go to church on Sunday. Lawrence went home on Sunday in a three inch snow. We were glad to have all of them.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Holliday and Colleen Boyd went to West Liberty on business Sunday.

Don Gullett, the 19-year-old rookie southpaw, apparently has won a place on the Reds roster for the year 1970. A year ago he was pitching for the Lynn Camp, Ky., high team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Gullett now of Lynn, Ky., but used to live in this section for many years. He has number 55 on his uniform so you can see him in person at Crosley Field on the TV games on channel 3, Huntington, W. Va.

Taking your medicine might be a painful enough experience without making a mistake. Be sure to check your medicine cabinet to see that medicines are not over-age. If they are, the cure could be worse than the malady.

MAVERICK. $1995*...it's a little gas.

*Ford's suggested retail price for the base Maverick model. White sidewall tires are not included, they are $30 extra. Since dealer preparation charges (if any), transportation charges and state and local taxes vary, they are not included, nor is extra equipment that is specially required by state laws.

Our little Maverick is America's best selling small car. The reason is simple—solid value. Maverick is simple to drive. Turn on the engine and you turn loose the power of 105 horses. Yet Maverick rivals the economy imports in gas mileage. Simple to park. Maverick can U-turn in a tighter circle than the leading import. Simple to service. Maverick requires fewer oil changes, fewer chassis lubrications. You save time and money. Simple to repair. The Maverick Owner's Manual has 24 pages of instruction for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself. Simple to own. Save right from the start—the Simple Machine is your Ford Dealer's lowest priced car.

For a little more...it's a GRABBER!

The new Maverick Grabber has all the same features as our Simple Machine but we've added an extra sporty flare to it. Here's what Grabber gives you: 1 Racy bodyside tape stripes, choice of five hot Grabber colors, 14-in. whitewall tires and wheel trim rings. High excitement, yes. High price, no. 2 200 CID Six and 3-speed fully synchronized manual transmission. Lots of pep, but not hard to tune. Grabber adds to your fun, not your mechanical problems. 3 Dual racing mirrors. But no high "muscle car" insurance rates. 4 Three-spoke woodgrained steering wheel just like the racing cars. But no hard, stiff ride. Grabber's sprung for comfort, not for the track. 5 Black-painted hood and grille. Grabber puts on a great front, but maintenance costs are low. Service is fast and simple. With lots you can do yourself. 6 Rear deck-lid spoiler. Even an economy car can dream, can't it?

MAVERICK Ford

THE NEW MAVERICK GRABBER IS AT YOUR FORD DEALER'S NOW.

MEDIC-RELIGIOUS BOOK REVIEWED AT CIRCLE MEET

Mrs. Steve Bliffen was guest speaker at the meeting of the Margaret Stacy Circle in the Wesley Room Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Bliffen gave a review of a book entitled, "None Of These Diseases," which was published in 1967 and written by S. D. McMillen, M.D. This book was written by a man who was troubled by the patients he could not cure. Something more than a pill is needed for the many emotional stresses of man that can cause illness. Medical science recognizes that emotions such as fear, sorrow, envy, resentment and hatred are responsible for a great many of our sicknesses, according to Dr. McMillen.

Dr. McMillen saturates his writing with scripture that have their answers to man's questions of how to prevent and cure many diseases.

Mrs. Earl Ray Sheets introduced the speaker. She also presented the devotional program. She read an article from the Easter issue of Ideals magazine entitled "The Certainty."

The hostesses were Miss Mary Ann Foudray and Mrs. Herbert Wells. Refreshments of tinned-fudge cake and coffee and coca-cola were served to the following: Mrs. Robert Mynear, Mrs. Gerald Amyx, Mrs. H. FIRST CHURCH OF GOD By Snowden Johnston

This morning in our Sunday school, Sister Martha Stacy in her opening remarks quoted from President Kennedy's inaugural address the very popular statement, "Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country." Then she said in our prayers we should not only ask God for His blessing but we should ask Him to show us how best we can serve Him. How true this is. God knows each of our desires and needs before we ask. Do we spend too much time asking Him and too little time thanking Him? If I come to you often asking you to help me and very seldom ever come to you for no other reason but to thank you for what you have done for me, how would you feel toward me? Yes, I know God's love is greater. His understanding is greater. Just another reason for us to be thankful.

In a class I attempted to teach this morning, the title of the lesson was "Letting Yourself Come Out." As I thought how many precious lives of our young people are wasted and ruined because they fail to wait and listen for the voice of God to guide them into the life He planned for them, the life where each could let his or her own personality come out and reflect the glory and beauty of God by being the individual God intended them to be. Our government requires by law that God doesn't forcibly require us, but He pleads with us through His love for each of us to be what He wants us to be and not to be imitator of the popular ones in our society.

Regardless of how small and insignificant our life may seem if we are living and letting ourselves come out in a way that is pleasing to God, no King on an earthly throne can be greater than the little person you know as you. We each have something to do instead of asking for selfish things, ask for guidance in serving.

GOV. NUNN VETOES SUNDAY CLOSING LAW AND OTHER ASSEMBLY ACTS

The Sunday closing law bill was the last of 50 proposed measures to which Gov. Louie B. Nunn applied the executive veto. The bill would have relaxed Kentucky's 169-year-old Sunday closing law.

Gov. Nunn said the bill would not solve existing problems and would only lead to "further confusion and litigation." He also said the Legislature should not "further repeal one of the Ten Commandments."

Perhaps the most prominent House bill to get the veto sign, HB 66 would have moved back from Dec. 31 to Oct. 1, in monthly stages, by 1972, the date by which students must be six years old in order to begin the first grade.

Nunn also vetoed: HB 478, which would have set up a Kentucky housing corporation to lend money from a $200 million bond issue to finance low income housing.

Senate Joint Resolution 63, calling for a Survey Commission on Public Education.

SB 267, which would have required annual rabies vaccination for cats as well as dogs.

SB 227, raising daily pay of jurors from $5 to $12.80.

HJR 28, calling for Legislature Research Commission study of revenue system of the state, counties, cities and school and other special districts.

Other bills getting the Nunn veto would have—required Kentucky auto license plates to be coated with light-reflecting material;

required school districts to provide transportation for students living more than a mile from school;

allowed banks to charge 15 per cent interest monthly on revolving credit plans for goods or loans achieved through a credit card;

allowed workmen's compensation to be paid to someone laid off due to a strike by a union other than his own;

exempt bonds issued by rural electric and telephone cooperatives from all statutory limitations on interest rates and terms. . . .

BILLS SIGNED

Signed into law bills—

raising the pay of county judges, clerks, sheriffs, attorneys and circuit court clerks from $9,600 to $12,000.

increasing expense allowance of commonwealth's attorneys from $250 to $500.

allowing justice of the peace to be paid $100 a month for expenses.

increasing quarterly allowance of county judges from $375 to $600.

raising cigarette tax from 2.5 to 3 cents a pack, with proceeds to go for tobacco research at UK.

tightening of election finance law requiring names of purchasers of more than $500 in tickets to fund-raising affairs to be made public.

reclassifying marijuana from narcotic to dangerous drug and providing for a mandatory sentence to a rehabilitation program upon first conviction of using the drug.

Bills which became law without the Governor's signature:

HB 34, exempting public school teachers and other school board employees from conflict of interest law which forbids state employees from serving in the Legislature.

SB 298, having the state Board of Education set maximum interest rates for revenue bonds sold for school construction rather than have the statutory limit of 7 per cent apply.

SB 231, to allow eight school districts which did not take advantage of the two 10-cent property tax increases allowed under a 1965 act to do so in the next two years.

MEDIC-RELIGIOUS BOOK REVIEWED AT CIRCLE MEET

Mrs. Steve Bliffen was guest speaker at the meeting of the Margaret Stacy Circle in the Wesley Room Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Bliffen gave a review of a book entitled, "None Of These Diseases," which was published in 1967 and written by S. D. McMillen, M.D. This book was written by a man who was troubled by the patients he could not cure. Something more than a pill is needed for the many emotional stresses of man that can cause illness. Medical science recognizes that emotions such as fear, sorrow, envy, resentment and hatred are responsible for a great many of our sicknesses, according to Dr. McMillen.

Dr. McMillen saturates his writing with scripture that have their answers to man's questions of how to prevent and cure many diseases.

Mrs. Earl Ray Sheets introduced the speaker. She also presented the devotional program. She read an article from the Easter issue of Ideals magazine entitled "The Certainty."

The hostesses were Miss Mary Ann Foudray and Mrs. Herbert Wells. Refreshments of tunnel-fudge cake and coffee and coca-cola were served to the following: Mrs. Robert Mynear, Mrs. Gerald Amyx, Mrs. H. Stacy, Mrs. Herbert Wells and Miss Mary Ann Foudray.

FIRST CHURCH OF GOD By Snowden Johnston

This morning in our Sunday school, Sister Martha Stacy in her opening remarks quoted from President Kennedy's inaugural address the very popular statement, "Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country." Then she said in our prayers we should not only ask God for His blessing but we should ask Him to show us how best we can serve Him. How true this is. God knows each of our desires and needs before we ask. Do we spend too much time asking Him and too little time thanking Him? If I come to you often asking you to help me and very seldom ever come to you for no other reason but to thank you for what you have done for me, how would you feel toward me? Yes, I know God's love is greater. His understanding is greater. Just another reason for us to be thankful.

In a class I attempted to teach this morning, the title of the lesson was "Letting Yourself Come Out." As I thought how many precious lives of our young people are wasted and ruined because they fail to wait and listen for the voice of God to guide them into the life He planned for them, the life where each could let his or her own personality come out and reflect the glory and beauty of God by being the individual God intended them to be. Our government requires by law that imitation be labeled as such. God doesn't forebly require us, but He pleads with us through His love for each of us to be what He wants us to be and not to be imitator of the popular ones in our society.

Regardless of how small and insignificant our life may seem if we are living and letting ourselves come out in a way that is pleasing to God, no King on an earthly throne can be greater than the little person you know as you. We each have something to do instead of asking for selfish things, ask for guidance in serving.

GOV. NUNN VETOES SUNDAY CLOSING LAW AND OTHER ASSEMBLY ACTS

The Sunday closing law bill was the last of 50 proposed measures to which Gov. Louie B. Nunn applied the executive veto. The bill would have relaxed Kentucky's 169-year-old Sunday closing law.

Gov. Nunn said the bill would not solve existing problems and would only lead to "further confusion and litigation". He also said the Legislature should not "further repeal one of the Ten Commandments".

Perhaps the most prominent House bill to get the veto sign, HB 66 would have moved back from Dec. 31 to Oct. 1, in monthly stages, by 1972, the date by which students must be six years old in order to begin the first grade.

Nunn also vetoed: HB 478, which would have set up a Kentucky housing corporation to lend money from a $200 million bond issue to finance low income housing.

Senate Joint Resolution 63, calling for a Survey Commission on Public Education.

SB 267, which would have required annual rabies vaccination for cats as well as dogs.

SB 227, raising daily pay of jurors from $5 to $12.80.

HJR 28, calling for Legislative Research Commission study of revenue system of the state, counties, cities and school and other special districts.

Other bills getting the Nunn veto would have:

Required Kentucky auto license plates to be coated with light-reflecting material.

Required school districts to provide transportation for students living more than a mile from school.

Allowed banks to charge 15 per cent interest monthly on revolving credit plans for goods or loans achieved through a credit card.

Allowed workmen's compensation to be paid to someone laid off due to a strike by a union other than his own.

Exempt bonds issued by rural electric and telephone cooperatives from all statutory limitations on interest rates and terms.

BILLS SIGNED

Signed into law bills—

Raising the pay of county judges, clerks, sheriffs, attorneys and circuit court clerks from $9,600 to $12,000.

Increasing expense allowance of commonwealth's attorneys from $250 to $500.

Allowing justice of the peace to be paid $100 a month for expenses.

Increasing quarterly allowance of county judges from $375 to $600.

Raising cigarette tax from 2.5 to 3 cents a pack, with proceeds to go for tobacco research at UK.

Tightening of election finance law requiring names of purchasers of more than $500 in tickets to fund-raising affairs to be made public.

Reclassifying marijuana from narcotic to dangerous drug and providing for a mandatory sentence to a rehabilitation program upon first conviction of using the drug.

Bills which became law without the Governor's signature:

HB 34, exempting public school teachers and other school board employees from conflict of interest law which forbids state employees from serving in the Legislature.

SB 298, having the state Board of Education set maximum interest rates for revenue bonds sold for school construction rather than have the statutory limit of 7 per cent apply.

SB 231, to allow eight school districts which did not take advantage of the two 10-cent property tax increases allowed under a 1965 act to do so in the next two years.

FOUNDER OF MOUNTAIN HOLINESS ASSN. DIES AT MT. CARMEL AT 81

Dr. Lela G. McConnell, founder of the Kentucky Mountain Holiness Association and director of the Mt. Carmel High School, died at her home at the school Tuesday at 4:45 p.m. She was 84, and had worked at the school since coming to the mountains 46 years ago from her home in Honeybrook, Penn.

She had been in ill health for the past few years but had remained active at the school most of the time. Mt. Carmel High School, they are operated by the Kentucky Mountain Holiness Association which Miss McConnell established in 1924.

Funeral will be Friday at 2 p.m. in the school chapel at Mt. Carmel High School. Her doctor in Scriptural holiness which she had enjoyed through the years stood her in good stead in her dying hour. She had told associates at the school she would die that day—and in the daytime. Workers at the two schools assembled which last three and a half hours, singing hymns and praying. She was conscious to the last, and suggested songs to sing and asked fellow workers to include in their prayers a plea that Brechtitt county vote dry at the local option election scheduled for Saturday.

OIL PATCH

By HAROLD EKAS, Geologist

Morgan County is part of a large Mauch Chunk Island of Eastern Kentucky.

Found under—

1. Elliott County.

2. Laurel County.

3. Morgan County.

4. Wolfe County.

5. McCreary County.

6. Lawrence County.

and balance of counties of East Kentucky, southwest to West Virginia, south to Tennessee and Virginia.

Maxton Sand (sometimes called Mountain Sand) produces scattering throughout areas given. Recent wells in Elliott and Magoffin Counties. No doubt some of the so-called Salt Sand oil given in the old well records was really in the Maxton Sand.

Right Fork White Oak — 121 ft. White Sand with some live oil showing.

Prater Branch, 59 ft.

Elkfork, 50 ft. First producer this area was in Maxton.

Right Fork of White Oak—1 had 12 ft. of shale from Maxton Sand down to Glen Dean (Little Lime). Show of oil in line.

Some places from 10 to 40 feet of shale from Maxton Sand to Newman (Big Lime) where Glen Dean (Little Lime) is not in place. I found 6 feet of Pencil Cave shale between the Little and Big Limes. Pencil Cave varies over area, some places as much as 30 feet, sometimes oil here in sand inheirs in this shale.

Next week: Newman (Big Lime) Mississippian.

Always check labels on cleaners and be sure to follow them strictly. Many of these beneficial products have ingredients which could be harmful if carelessly or improperly used.

ODDS AND ENDS

By Earl Kinner, Jr.

We've got a right good idea that as of last Saturday, the Man up Yonder gets a big smile on His face every time he thinks about Morgan County folks.

It's our firm conviction that mountain people always act wisely—on any issue—if they know the facts and feel they are being dealt with honestly.
 Thus, last week when the chips were down we weren't really surprised at citizens' tremendous demonstration of support for the proposed West Liberty Hospital. For the past 34 months, the hospital drive has been the No. 1 running story in this newspaper. During that time members of our staff have spent many hours attending meetings, making phone calls, and digging out and sorting facts in an effort to keep citizens informed on this important project. We feel we've done a reasonably adequate job. If by chance this newspaper's presentation of the facts has played some small part in the hospital drive's success, we are deeply gratified.

More and more we hear the West Liberty Hospital being referred to as the Morgan County Hospital. This is only fitting. Twice in the clutch it was the generosity and action of a majority of Morgan County citizens which saved the hospital. First when a determined majority of voters passed a $450,000 bond issue to pay local costs. And again last week when they donated from their pockets enough money to purchase a hospital site. However, it cannot be over-emphasized that the hospital fund drive is not over.
 Much more money is needed to meet initial operating costs when the facility opens in late 1971.

This week's Courier carries several announcements of upcoming activities and events for the benefit of the Morgan County Hospital Fund. If you haven't given, please do so if you can.

Without much fanfare, a number of community development clubs have sprung up in this county in recent weeks—all supported by the Northeast Area Development Council. Look for an article on this soon in The Courier.

Lanny Franklin reports that his dog has befriended a stray chicken and the chicken has took up lodging in the doghouse.

Received this by first class mail, but unsigned: "That a person has the right to his opinions doesn't justify his going around boring people with them." Hmm.

Courier printer Jimmy Cantrell last week determined to go on a diet. Monday he complained that no matter what kind of a diet you decide on, you're usually allowed to eat as much as you want of anything you don't like.

Avoid overloading an outlet by use of multiple sockets. The result of misuse of electricity could put you in the dark — hospital — or worse.

It pays to beware of the man who thinks he is always right.

WRIGLEY SCHL. ENDS NET SEASON WITH WIN OVER ELLIOTTVILLE

BY STEVE O'CONNOR

The Wrigley Wildcats ended their basketball season Tuesday with a win over the Elliottville Lions. The Wildcats, formerly coached by John Conover, led at the half 27-17,
 and went on to win the game, 62-37.

Kevin Ratliff led the Wildcats with 16 points. Wrigley had two other players in double figures. They were

Kennie Adkins with 15 and Rocky Howard with 12.

Starting guard, Ralph Ratliff had 8 and was followed by Steve O'Connor with 7 and Timmy Adkins and Dennis Lewis 2 each.

For Elliottville, Rick Trent led all scorers with 24. He was followed by Curtis Dillon with 4, David Howard 3 and James Winkelman scored on

BURLEY PRICE
SUPPORT SET
AT 68.6 CENTS

WASHINGTON — The U.
 S. Department of Agriculture has set the average price support level for the 1970 burley tobacco crop at 68.6 cents a pound, compared with a 65.8 cents average for the 1969 crop.

The support is the amount farmers are guaranteed for their leaf in return for limiting the amount of tobacco
 they raise.

The agency said Thursday the increase is about 4.3 per cent because price-support law requires that price supports reflect the higher costs of goods and services bought by farmers during the past three years, compared with the average of those prices during the 1959 base period.

2 REPUBLICANS VIE FOR BID TO OPPOSE PERKINS

Two Republicans filed late Wednesday to run for Congress from the Seventh District, narrowly beating the candidates' deadline.

The two, who will vie to challenge incumbent Carl D.
 Perkins in the general election,
 are:

Herbert E. Myers, Louisa,
 construction company administrator, and Harrison H. Wheeler, Lexington, retired grocery company executive.

Rep. Perkins is unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Mr. Wheeler, a native of Morgan County, who was reared in Johnson, moved to Ashland in the 1930s. He has lived in Lexington about 15 years. A congressional candidate is not required to live in the district he represents.

Mr. Myers, a West Virginia native who settled in Louisa when working on the Kentucky Power Company construction project, has been active in the Lawrence County and Seventh District GOP organizations.

The University of Kentucky is a small city in itself. It has its own post office, bookstore, radio station, newspaper, printing plant, cafeterias, theatre, libraries, police force, and hospital.
 There are over 100 major buildings on the Lexington campus alone. The University community, including students, full-time faculty, and staff members, numbers about 22,000.

Theories are educated, hunches with common-sense attachments.

FEDERAL AND STATE CUTBACKS IN SPENDING HURT PROPERTY VALUES

Property values in the Morehead area have fallen and real estate sales in Rowan county are almost non-existent now, says the Morehead News.

And editor W. E. Crutcher says the cutbacks are due majorly to changes in federal and state programs and cutbacks in allocations. He writes — "This has been a week of unwelcome tidings for the people of Morehead, Rowan County and this area.

Because of President Nixon's drastic cut (75 percent or more) in almost all phases of domestic spending, these depressing items of utmost local economic importance are on this Publisher's desk.

1. The Farmers Home Administration will not lend the Morehead-Rowan County Recreation Association the $400,000 required for the recreation complex (olympic swimming pool, club house, playgrounds etc) planned at south Bridge Street on what is known as the Sluss property. The promoters who have worked so long and so faithfully have scheduled some community meetings, but the picture today is as dim as quarter-moon midnight. About 350 public spirited citizens, or families, have already put up $100, each.

2. Any hope of a contract award for widening and straightening Triplett Creek through Morehead this year appears down the drain. The City of Morehead has borrowed around $85,000 to purchase the rights-of-way, and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers had planned to spend around $900,000 with a possible spring or summer contract construction contract.

3. The perhaps $10 million, or more, that Daniel Boone National Forest planned for recreation sites on Cave Run reservoir have all but been canceled. (Fortunately, the big one on Scott Creek is under construction and that is assured as is the $30 million reservoir, also under construction).

4. Plans of Rowan (rural) Water, Inc., to supply city (PIT) water to the Christy Creek, Elliottville, Cranston, Pine Grove and Tar Flat areas appear doomed, at least for a long time.

5. It may be years before any more skyscraper, or other construction, comes to the campus of Morehead State University. Gov. Nunn says state-supported universities and colleges are already (or will have to) dip in operating funds to amortize existing indebtedness. This loss in payrolls, services and materials, has been running into millions of dollars at Morehead.

6. Plans for a "model city" extending from Bluestone in Rowan County to past Salt Lick in Bath County are, as of today, completely out of question.

7. Local, and informed realtors say that property sales in Rowan County are almost non-existent . . . and local real estate values are falling.

8. No federal funds are available for the thought of many that Morehead's corporate limits would be extended to make the area of our town two or three times bigger by incorporating several square miles over Divide Hill east of Interstate 64.

9. Implication is growing there will be a cut-back or curtailment in federal personnel . . . and many already blue-printed programs including welfare, and even medical.

ARIZONA ASSAY UPHOLDS GOLD FIND IS REPORT

Reports published a few months ago that pay-dirt had been struck in gold and silver in Lawrence County were subsequently attacked as false, but according to a story in The Floyd County Times last week, an assay certificate from the Arizona Testing Laboratories, Phoenix, Ariz., show that a sample submitted assayed 59.6 ounces of gold per ton.

At $35 an ounce the per-ton yield was valued at $2086, The Times said.

According to The Times, the certificate was sent to Homer Neeley of Milford, Ohio.

Mr. Neeley said the ore sample tested was from Vein No. 5 on the Neeley and Jordan properties in Lawrence County, and that this is the first analysis made from this vein. The mining which has already been done, Neeley said was from Vein No. 2.

Although No. 2 Vein yielded only 7 ounces of gold per ton, Neeley said, the ore was trucked to Cincinnati for smelting and was done at a profit.

Mr. Neeley emphasized that his firm has no stock sell, The Times said.

ARNETT SENTENCED IN ADAMS KILLING

SALYERSVILLE, Ky.—James Woodrow Arnett was found guilty in Knott Circuit Court and sentenced to 10 years in prison for the killing of Carl Adams at a Salyersville restaurant in the fall of 1968. His attorneys have filed motion for a new trial.

FORD CRITICIZES NUNN FOR VETOES

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Democratic Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford criticized Republican Gov. Louie B. Nunn for vetoing Ford-backed resolutions for studies on education and the tax structure.

"The governor's veto hurts the low and middle income families in Kentucky who feel the crunch of an improperly distributed tax load," Ford said.

Declaring both resolutions were good and backed by a great amount of work and thought, Ford said:

"Now like a King Kong pounding his chest to show his power, Gov. Nunn uses his veto simply to show that he has the last word on what the legislature did."

"As with so many things during the Nunn administration, his message said in part: 'This resolution amounts to nothing more than a political escape from reality. Studies shall never be a substitute for courage.'"

When Nunn vetoed Senate Resolution 63 on education, his message said in part: "This resolution amounts to nothing more than a political escape from reality. Studies shall never be a substitute for courage."

When Nunn vetoed House Joint Resolution 28 on taxes, he said the Revenue Department makes such studies continuously and "the Legislative Research Commission does not need a politically motivated directive to make studies."

Ford contended the studies could have updated the minimum foundation program of basic state aid to local schools and could have suggested a tax structure "less burdensome on the poor, sick and those on fixed income."

The lieutenant governor said Nunn has acknowledged problems exist in those areas, but "during the legislative session he showed no leadership whatever. He offered no recommendations . . ."

Now, Ford said, having abdicated his responsibility, Nunn "slams the door in the face of the people when the legislature takes a sensible approach to these two problems."

AMERICANS OWN 90 MILLION CARS AND LOVE-HATE ALL OF THEM, VIEW

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Americans love automobiles. They must. They own 90 million of them.

Americans hate automobiles. They must. Cars killed 56,000 persons last year, and polluted the air with 90 million tons of toxic gas.

The love-hate list could be extended indefinitely. Automobiles are choking city centers with endless streams of traffic. That's bad. But the auto industry provides jobs for one out of every six American workers. That's good.

Automobiles are status symbols. But they also are killers of teen-agers.

They have made American society the most mobile in history. But they also have marred the landscape with a proliferation of junk yards and gasoline stations.

Both the bane and the blessing are due to increase sharply in the years ahead.

By 1990—20 years hence—the Federal Highway Administration estimates there will be 158 million motor vehicles on America's streets and roads — a 50 percent increase.

Combine the auto explosion with the population explosion which will put 100 million more people in urban areas by the year 2,000, and you have the ingredients of a major national problem.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe describes the problem this way: "Should we push our dependence on the car beyond some reasonable upper bound, and permit it to change from servant to our master, to become an end in itself rather than a means to a better life?"

What is the answer? Certainly there is no substitute for the automobile. But the kind of cars Americans drive may be radically different within a few years.

In his environment message to Congress, President Nixon called for development of a "virtually pollution free" car in five years.

Nixon did not say the present gasoline-driven engine must go. But most experts agree that the auto industry, while trimming pollution from gasoline engines, will now look toward some other source of power — steam, electricity, gas turbines, natural gas. Conceivably, the auto buyer of the future may have several choices when he arrives at the showroom.

Conventional Engine

The conventional gasoline engine is under attack because it has been found guilty of major complicity in the air pollution problem which has become an acute national concern.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch contends that "the motor vehicle is responsible for almost half of our air pollution problems."

Some experts think auto exhaust fumes contribute more than half of the total pollutants entering the atmosphere.

A recent Commerce Department study estimated that cars this year will spew out 66 million tons of carbon monoxide alone plus six million tons of nitrogen oxides and about 190,000 tons of lead compounds—all known to have toxic effects on the body.

But the degree of toxicity is open to dispute. Take lead, for example. The toxic effects of lead have been known for 2,000 years. It was put into gasoline 47 years ago to raise the octane rating. Since then the amount of lead has risen as the car engine has become more powerful. Now each gallon has about 4 grams of lead in it, which adds up to a total of about 700 million pounds of lead consumed each year in gasoline.

The disagreement is over how much lead ends up in the atmosphere. Some experts claim as much as 250 million pounds is dumped into the air.

STATE POLICE INVESTIGATION IN ROWAN BRINGS INDICTMENTS

Probe Shows Drug Use Spreading To Rural High Schools

By FRANK ASHLEY

Courier-Journal Staff Writer MOREHEAD, Ky. — A recent six-month state-police investigation of what authorities called a "major" problem of drug use in local high schools represents a new, growing line of work for troopers in rural areas, state police director C. B. Crutcher said yesterday.

The undercover investigation which has been under way since school began last September, resulted in the indictment of three young Morehead residents by a Rowan County grand jury and last month placed the high school drug users in the custody of county officials.

Indicted on five counts of possessing, selling and using dangerous drugs and narcotics was Edgar Eugene Harness, 26, former Morehead graduate student from Ashland.

Robert Petit, 20, and Tim Whitfield Smith III, 20, both of Morehead, were indicted on charges of using narcotic drugs. Harness was released on $20,000 bond and his trial was set for May 4. Petit and Smith will be arraigned Monday and have been released in $100 bonds.

Trooper Poses as Hippie The arrests followed six months of planning and undercover work in which a state trooper became a hippie, gained the confidence of the accused dooping leaders and reportedly bought marijuana and LSD tablets from the Morehead groups and from their associates in Lexington. Two arrests were later made in Lexington, stemming from the Rowan County investigation.

Although this in-depth investigation of high-school drug problems is not the first for state policemen, Crutcher said, he termed it a "major" one.

"Drugs are spreading into the rural areas more and more," Crutcher said in a telephone interview yesterday. "We have a responsibility toward drug control in the areas we cover just like we do toward traffic control. And we will act whenever the circumstances call for it."

He added that all state policemen receive training on drugs and can step in anywhere they are needed by local, rural officials.

'Nowhere Else to Go' Rowan County Atty. Jim Clay said he asked the state police to conduct the investigation after a "prominent Morehead businessman" came to him and said his son had been taking drugs at the county high school. "This is probably the first time the state police have ever waged an all-out anti-drug campaign in a rural area," Clay said. "But I had nowhere else to go . . . This problem stretched from Morehead to Lexington to Ashland, and probably to New York."

Clay said Morehead and Rowan County do not have the manpower or laboratory facilities for such an investigation and said that the drug problem in Rowan County schools was so widespread that it took a larger agency to handle it.

"People here didn't think there was a dope problem at the high school," commented state police Capt. John Robey, commander of Troop F, which includes posts in Morehead and Ashland. "The problem was big and widespread and we have shown it to the people. Now we hope the parents will cooperate so we can stay on top of it."

Robey, like Crutcher, figures rural drug problems will become more and more the business of the Kentucky state police as the use of marijuana and LSD spreads into country high schools from the larger cities.

The state police do not have jurisdiction in some Kentucky cities unless called in by local governments, but it does have full jurisdiction in all rural areas.

"We feel like we had to do something here," Robey said. "Some people around the college were getting it into the high schools here. We know for a fact that there is plenty of marijuana, LSD, and all kinds of pep pills available and we have heard that there is 'speed' and heroin."

He said he knew of at least one 13-year-old boy who had smoked marijuana and taken LSD.

Campbell said all the information indicated that drugs were more widespread on the college campus than in the high schools but said he was more concerned about high-school students, who seem to be more impressed with the drugs and don't have the maturity to resist whatever is "in."

He said the problem appeared to be greater at the county high school than at Breckinridge Training School, a university high school on the Morehead campus. However, he added, one of the three juveniles arrested was a student at Breckinridge and the state police have not had an undercover man working there.

"We know that drugs are available at the college and at the high school here," commented another official who asked that his name not be used. "But we feel that we need an invitation before we hunt anyone there. Politics, you know."

Rotary Drilling Rig Is Moved To Elliott for Deep Oil Probe

Erecting Of Rig Is Now Underway At Stephens Site

A drilling contractor last week began moving rotary drilling equipment into Elliott County to sink a deep test oil well at Stephens.

Location of the well will be on the farm of Cecil Ison at the mouth of Ison Creek, on a site about 500 feet from the Stephens Post Office. The site is east of another deep test drilled a few years ago at Lytten.

Six semi-trailer truck loads of equipment were moved last week to Clarence Dickerson's garage at Bruin to await arrival of engineers to lay out the drilling site.

The equipment, owned by drilling contractor Slim Reu, was moved here from Waverly, Tenn. and is the first of several trailer loads yet to come.

Seating of the big rotary rig is scheduled to begin this week, according to reports from landowners in the area.

No announcement has been made, but it is thought that the well is being drilled as a joint exploratory effort by two or more big oil companies. The Cecil Ison property is leased by Penns Oil Co. But Ashland Oil, Sun Oil Co. and others also own leases in the immediate area.

The drilling site lies along the edge of a Pre- and Middle-Cambrian formation which runs from Boyd County southwestward through parts of Carter County, Elliott, northern Morgan, and then westward to Boyle County.

This structure, discovered and mapped by seismograph crews about five years ago, has been the target of other deep test explorations along its corridor during the past two years.

It is not known whether the new deep test at Stephens will go only to the Cambrian formation or on to the granite. However, it is rumored that the contractor plans to drill to the granite, a depth estimated between 8,000 and 9,000 feet in the Stephens area. Such a well can be drilled in three to four weeks with a rotary rig.

Two deep wells sunk in southwest Boyd County two years ago to test the Cambrian structure went to depths of around 7,500 feet. A deep test drilled at Lytten a few years earlier went to 5,700 feet.

The last exploration of the Cambrian formation was last year at Leisure in northern Morgan County and went below 5,750 feet.

Results of these deep tests are secret and results of the deep test at Stephens will probably also remain a secret.

Oil men believe the new well — on the eastern side of a fault known as the Paint Creek Uplift — is on the southern edge of the Cambrian. The Paint Creek Uplift is a fault in the earth's crust which runs north and south through Elliott and eastern Morgan County.

Deep tests enable geologists to plot the depth of various formations and to locate the all-important escarpments along the strata. Escarpments are raised sections in the formations and geologists plot them hoping that circular C or V-shaped escarpments may have trapped oil-bearing sands when the seas settled in the formative period of the earth.

Drilling stems of the huge rotary rigs used for deep tests are hollow. Water is pressured downward through the stem to force out the "cuttings" from the tungsten drill bit as it descends into the earth. It is the cuttings which geologists study for geological data.

The deep test in Elliott is certain to attract wide interest from other oil companies. And though the well is almost certain to be a "tight" well with no information divulged, Elliott County can expect an influx of scouts eager to pick up any information possible about oil prospects from the deep strata. A flurry of leasing also can be expected.

In recent days, Crate Rice and associates of Paintsville have been buying leases in the area which are not already owned by one or the other of the major oil companies.

NIXON SIGNS BILL BANNING RADIO AND TV ADVERTISING OF CIGARETTES

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Nixon this week signed a bill enacting into law a ban on cigarette advertising broadcast by television and radio starting Jan. 2, 1971.

The bill also authorizes the Federal Trade Commission to require, if it chooses, that health warnings be included in printed advertising after July 1, 1971.

David Lawrence in commenting on the new law said — "Questions arise as to Constitutional power of the federal government to forbid the advertising of any product which it is legal to sell. The theory that a right exists to ban cigarette commercials on the air stems from the far-reaching control the federal government has over radio and television. But it is doubtful whether such restrictions can be applied Constitutionally over what the printed media may publish. Disputes will develop as to whether a warning that some product may prove harmful can be required."

The tobacco manufacturers themselves do not agree with the findings of some of the research made thus far about the danger to health in smoking, and feel that the warnings are not justified.

The Federal Trade Commission, however, indicated to Congress last June that if the tobacco manufacturers switch their broadcast advertising money to printed advertisements, the FTC hoped to require them to include this notice: "Warning: Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates that total consumer spending for cigarettes in 1969 amounted to 5 billion dollars, plus 4.3 billion collected by federal, state and local governments in excise taxes.

While the amendment was in force, it was, of course, illegal to publish any advertisements offering intoxicating beverages. Doubtless litigation will raise questions as to whether tobacco products could be kept off the market and their sale interfered with by banning advertising.

While the controversy at the moment is related to broadcast advertising, the amount spent for that purpose is relatively small compared to the sums involved in the production of tobacco products. The tobacco states are deeply interested in the future of the debate because the market for one of their main industries—both the growing and processing of tobacco—will be seriously affected if a prohibition on or a serious drop in use of cigarettes should ensue.

Again this year the Wolfe County Kiwanis Club will sponsor a sight-seeing boat and canoe trip through the rugged Roughs of Red River in the upper gorge. The event will be held Saturday, April 25, beginning at 9 a.m. and is being held in conjunction with the annual Red River Canoe Race, which is set for Sunday, April 26.

The upper gorge trip is not a race and is recommended for experienced canoeists only. A waiver of liability will be required from all participants in case of injury to property or bodily harm.

Though extremely rugged, the upper gorge is one of the most scenic areas in Kentucky. Kiwanians and others will be located at strategic points to assist participants. Check-in and check-out service will be offered as will shuttling of autos for those who cannot do this for themselves.

It is recommended that a rope and other safety and first aid equipment be taken on the trip.

Orientation will be held at the Koomer Ridge camping area Friday, April 24, at dusk at which time color slides of the upper gorge area will be shown. Canoeists will meet at the Gateway Restaurant in Campton at 9 a.m. Saturday and then proceed to the starting point at Spradlin Bridge on KY-746.

For more information, contact Taylor Booth, Box 244, Campton, Ky. 41301.

SOCIAL SECURITY HIKE WILL NOT ENDANGER FD. STAMP ELIGIBILITY

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Food stamp and commodity participants can look forward to the upcoming 15 percent increase in Social Security checks with out fear the hike will jeopardize their eligibility for further food assistance.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn says the income scale for eligibility will be increased pending federal approval.

Under the new scale a person can earn as much as $130 a month and still be eligible for food assistance whereas the old scale fixed $110 a month as the cut-off point.

Merritt S. Deitz Jr., commissioner of Economic Security, said reports indicate the revision could assist as many as 4000 Kentuckians who would otherwise be ineligible for food assistance when the Social Security increase takes effect.

Deitz said he hopes to have the increase effective by April 1.

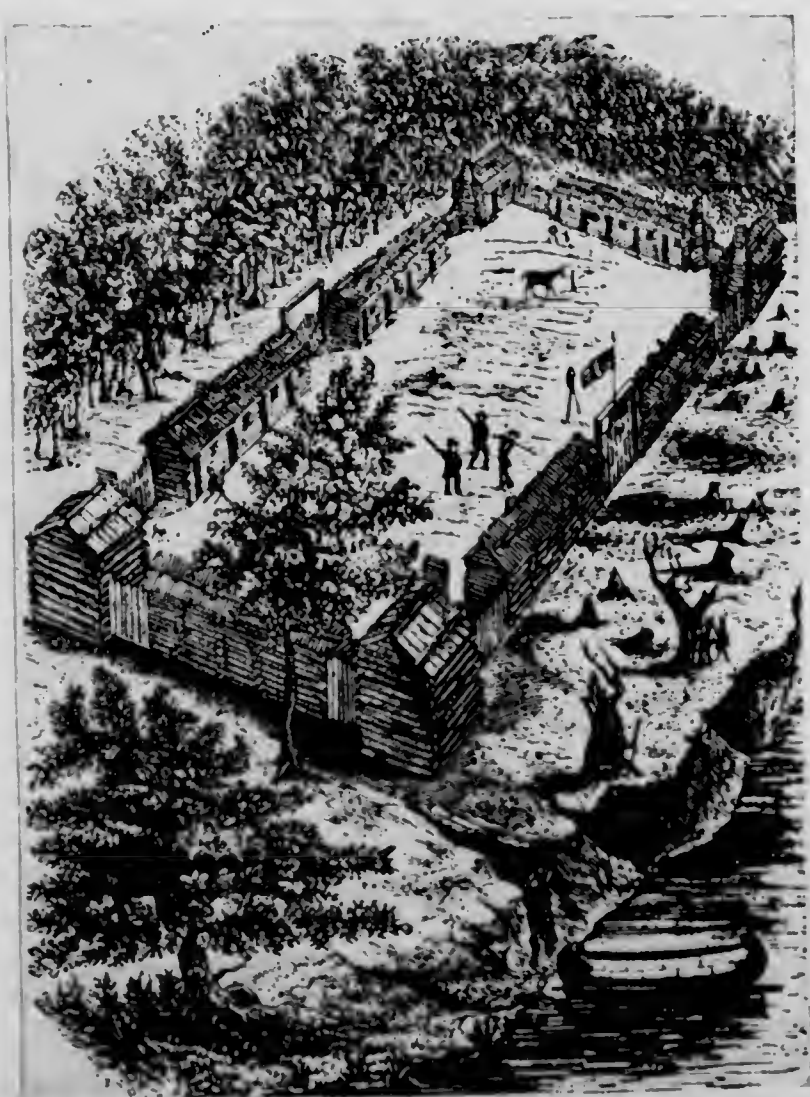

The last upward revision came in March, 1968, to meet the increase in Social Security payments this year.

STATE'S 200th ANNIVERSARY BEING PLANNED

The Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission, which has commenced work on coordinating plans for celebrating the 200th anniversary of the first settlement in Kentucky (in 1774), has recommended construction of Fort Boonesboro with a museum to show the way of life in Daniel Boone's time. Fort Boonesboro was located on the banks of Kentucky River about seven miles below the mouth of Red River and about 19 miles south of Winchester. It is now a state park site. The Commission also plans events at the Lincoln Shrine in Hodgenville, and at Harrodsburg as well as many other historic sites in the state. Hopefully, the 1974 celebration will be the stimulus for many other communities to get into the anniversary celebration.

The program is scheduled to begin June 22 and continue through Aug. 7. However, it is essential that names of all prospective enrollees be submitted in order to secure quick release of federal operating funds.

Always check labels on cleansers and be sure to follow them strictly. Many of these beneficial products have ingredients which could be harmful if carelessly or improperly used.

KENTUCKY HAS FEWER BIRTHS

FRANKFORT, Ky. — There are fewer childbirths in Kentucky according to figures of the Kentucky Office of Vital Statistics.

Over 72,000 births were recorded in 1969 but the number dropped to 56,435 in 1968. After a slight increase from 1960 to 1961, the number has decreased steadily at about 1964 births per year.

Most Kentucky counties showed a corresponding drop—Anderson County went from 160 births in 1960 to 145 in 1968. Burton County went from 385 to 291, and Woodford County from 311 to 263.

An increase in the number of deaths was recorded in the eight-year period. There were 23,909 deaths in 1960, compared to over 32,900 recorded in 1968.

Improvements in medicine reduced infant mortality from 1083 stillbirths in 1960 to 823 in 1968, the office of Vital Statistics reported.

WEATHER DELAYS FARM WORK HERE

Cold, wet weather has delayed farming operations in this area the past few weeks when farmers usually get their tobacco beds sown. Plowing has been slowed and is only about one-fourth completed as compared to one-half a year ago. Plant bed preparation and setting also has been delayed. Cool weather has been holding back pasture growth also. A low pressure system moved across the state April 1 and 2, bringing heavy thunderstorms and rain accompanied by snow flurries and strong winds up to 50 miles an hour.

WOLFE COUNTY NATIVE IS TOP RATED TEACHER AT UNIV. OF VERMONT

MISS MARY JO RUDD

BURLINGTON, Vt. — Pretty Miss Mary Jo Rudd is frequently mistaken for a student at the University of Vermont in Burlington, but actually Miss Rudd is one of the University's top rated teachers.

Mary Jo, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rudd of Burkhardt, Wolfe County, Kentucky, was rated as the top teacher in the Speech Department at the University by a student rating poll which was culminated in a book called "The Albatross."

Miss Rudd, who began her teaching duties at the University in September, 1969, has also taught in Hawaii, and Iowa where she also received a high evaluation on a similar rating.

Under a category labeled "Specific Characteristics of the Instructor," Mary Jo was at the head of the list. Only one percent of her students found fault with her mannerisms in conducting a class. Perhaps more important, Miss Rudd was rated the field of speech.

at 49 for mastery of subject matter, which is just below a perfect rating and in the "excellent" category.

Miss Rudd was also featured in an article in the Burlington Free Press for her teaching methods which combined the learning of public speaking with a social action project which aided an area school for the retarded.

Miss Rudd has a fellowship to obtain her Ph.D. in Communication Theory either at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles or at the University of Oregon in Eugene, Ore.

Mary Jo is also a debate coach at the University, and this has afforded her the opportunity to partake in one of her favorite pastimes, travel.

Before coming to Vermont to teach, she travelled to South America, the Orient and has lived in all parts of this country.

She plans to go to Europe this summer before going on to further post-graduate study in Impala '400' Sale.

You save when you buy it. You save when you drive it.

When you buy any Impala V8 model during our "400" Sale, here's how you can get two popular extras at no extra charge.

You order your Impala equipped with a Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, radio, Comfortilt steering wheel, front and rear bumper guards and white stripe tires. Items you'd probably order anyway.

Then we add our big 400-cubic-inch V8 at 265 hp that runs on regular gas, along with dual exhausts—both at no charge.

(The manufacturer's suggested retail price including Federal excise tax for the regular fuel 400 V8 and dual exhausts is $93,75.)

But that's only the beginning. Because your Chevrolet dealer is really anxious to deal these days.

And the Impala you're buying, of course, got to be America's No. 1 car, because of all the value features built right in. Features like flush-and-dry rocker panels that fight rust. Inner fenders to protect the outer fenders. Long lasting bias belted ply tires, steel guard beams in every door for added protection, an acrylic lacquer finish over its solid Body by Fisher.

All of which contributes to Impala's traditionally high resale value, too.

You're getting America's No. 1 car on sale. The car more people buy—year after year after year.

How can you beat that?

Again We Are Proud of Morgan County People And Their Neighbors

They have made themselves proud by their cooperative action in quickly donating $23,550 for the new West Liberty Area Hospital

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF PROPOSED $1 1/2 MILLION AREA HOSPITAL AT WEST LIBERTY

This old-time cooperative spirit among neighbors in working for a common goal bespeaks again the neighborliness, good will and cooperation that reside within the breasts of our people.

It was the spirit of giving and helping and cooperating that in the past made Morgan County a better place to live. The revival of this spirit, through the hospital campaign, bespeaks still greater achievements for the future.

In order to secure federal funds to aid with the project, Morgan citizens voted a county bond issue of $425,000 at the November 1968 election, and then last week they continued their giving with cash to buy a site for the new facility.

We here in Morgan, though lacking in affluence, live in a favored clime. We are not beset by racial strife, street rioting, nor hippies, nor dope rings. Nor do we suffer from industrial pollution, congested population or traffic jams, nor the confusion and indifference to old moral codes that these conditions bring.

Morgan people by continuing this spirit of neighborly cooperation can achieve whatever they set their mind to. And, here in this favored clime, we can build a veritable garden within a wilderness of confusion and turmoil.

HOSPITAL SITE—Site selected by Morgan County Hospital Board for proposed West Liberty Hospital is atop Wells Hill on 4.67-acre leveled lot (arrow). This aerial photo is looking south and Wells Hill Road traverses west side of lot. Home at corner of lot belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Williams will be relocated. Planned is a 54-bed facility, half to be a hospital and half to be an extended care center. The hospital section will front on Wells Hill Road and the extended care section will overlook Licking River, center, and downtown West Liberty. Keeton Heights Sub-Division is at upper left overlooking town on the east. West Liberty Elementary School is at bottom center. Morgan Countians last year approved a county bond issue of up to $425,000 to pay local cost of $1.5 million hospital and the Hill-Burton Board later approved a grant of $600,000 in federal and state funds to help with costs. Application is pending for an additional grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission.
